- Included accessories
- Warranty conditions
- Whether the product has been used

Change-of-mind eligibility may depend on:

- Product category
- Product condition
- Time since delivery
- Packaging
- Product-specific conditions

Depending on the product and reason for return, requirements may include:

- Product is unused
- Product is not damaged by the customer
- Original packaging is available

Defective, damaged, or incorrect products may be handled differently from ordinary change-of-mind returns.

==========

13. USED PRODUCTS

==========

Using a product may affect return eligibility.

Customers should review the applicable return conditions before using a product if they are unsure whether it can be returned.

For defective products, normal use does not necessarily prevent a customer from reporting a defect.

The appropriate outcome depends on the circumstances and applicable terms.

==========

14. OPENED PACKAGING

==========

Opening a product package may affect return eligibility for certain products.

The effect of opened packaging depends on:

Customers should avoid modifying a product if they intend to return it.

A customer requesting a return should provide the information required by the applicable return process.

Information may include:

- Order number
- Product
