HULU BEJE — SELLER AND VENDOR POLICY

Document ID: 11

Document Type: Seller and Marketplace Business Policy

Company: Hulu Beje

Scope: Sellers, Vendors, Marketplace Products, Seller Responsibilities, Customer-Seller Interactions, Seller Complaints, Returns, Fulfillment, and Seller Escalation

==========

1. PURPOSE OF THIS POLICY

==========

This document defines the general business policies and responsibilities that apply to sellers and vendors operating through Hulu Beje.

The purpose of this policy is to establish clear expectations regarding:

- Seller participation
- Seller responsibilities
- Product listings
- Product information
- Product pricing
- Inventory
- Product quality
- Product authenticity
- Order fulfillment
- Delivery
- Returns
- Refunds
- Exchanges

- Warranty
- Customer communication
- Seller complaints
- Seller disputes
- Seller conduct
- Promotions
- Seller performance
- Privacy
- Security
- Restricted products
- Seller account issues
- Seller escalation

Specific seller arrangements may vary depending on the seller, product, agreement, order, or applicable Hulu Beje policy.

==========

2. MARKETPLACE OVERVIEW

==========

Hulu Beje may provide a marketplace environment where customers can purchase products offered by different sellers or vendors.

Depending on the applicable arrangement:

- Hulu Beje may provide the marketplace and customer service environment.
- Sellers may be responsible for providing and maintaining their product listings.
- Sellers may be responsible for product quality and accuracy.
- Sellers may fulfill certain orders.
- Sellers may have responsibilities regarding returns, exchanges, warranties, or product support.
- Delivery responsibilities may vary by seller and order.

- Customer support may coordinate between customers and sellers when necessary.

Customers should not automatically assume that every product is supplied, fulfilled, or warranted under identical seller arrangements.

==========

3. HULU BEJE AND SELLER RESPONSIBILITIES

==========

Responsibilities may be divided between Hulu Beje and the seller.

Hulu Beje may be responsible for areas such as:

- Marketplace operations

- Customer support

- Order coordination

- Applicable marketplace policies

- Customer communication

- Escalation of seller-related complaints

- Other responsibilities established by the applicable arrangement

Sellers may be responsible for areas such as:

- Product accuracy

- Product availability

- Product quality

- Product authenticity

- Pricing information

- Inventory information

- Product fulfillment

- Seller-specific return or warranty obligations

- Appropriate customer communication

- Compliance with applicable seller requirements

The exact responsibility depends on the applicable product, seller, order, and business arrangement.

==========

4. SELLER APPROVAL AND PARTICIPATION

==========

Sellers may be required to meet Hulu Beje's applicable requirements before offering products through the marketplace.

Seller participation may depend on:

- Seller information
- Business requirements
- Product categories
- Product quality
- Product documentation
- Applicable marketplace requirements
- Seller agreement
- Compliance with applicable policies

Hulu Beje may review seller participation when concerns arise regarding:

- Product quality
- Product authenticity
- Customer complaints
- Seller conduct

- Fulfillment performance

- Policy violations

- Restricted products

- Fraudulent activity

==========

5. SELLER ACCOUNT RESPONSIBILITIES

==========

Sellers are responsible for maintaining accurate information associated with their seller account.

Seller information may include:

- Business or seller name

- Contact information

- Business information where applicable

- Product information

- Payment or payout information where applicable

- Delivery information

- Return information

- Other required seller details

Sellers should keep relevant information accurate and current.

Sellers should protect their account credentials and should not share passwords or authentication information with unauthorized persons.

==========

6. SELLER PRODUCT LISTINGS

==========

Sellers are responsible for ensuring that their product listings are accurate.

Product listings should accurately describe:

- Product name
- Product type
- Product description
- Product specifications
- Brand, where applicable
- Model, where applicable
- Size or variant
- Color or other selectable attributes
- Included items

- Condition

- Warranty information where applicable

- Seller information

- Applicable product restrictions

Product information should not intentionally mislead customers.

==========

7. PRODUCT DESCRIPTIONS

==========

Seller product descriptions should be:

- Accurate

- Clear

- Relevant

- Complete enough for customers to make informed purchasing decisions

- Consistent with the actual product

Sellers should not:

- Misrepresent products

- Hide important product conditions

- Use false claims

- Provide materially inaccurate specifications

- Describe a different product than the one supplied

- Claim features that the product does not have

==========

8. PRODUCT IMAGES

==========

Product images should reasonably represent the product being offered.

Images should not intentionally mislead customers about:

- Product appearance
- Product size
- Product quantity
- Product model
- Included accessories
- Product condition
- Color

- Brand

Where product images are illustrative rather than exact, the listing should make this clear where appropriate.

==========

9. PRODUCT VARIANTS

==========

Sellers should clearly distinguish between product variants.

Variants may include:

- Size

- Color

- Model

- Capacity

- Quantity

- Version

- Other product-specific options

Customers should receive the variant they selected, subject to the applicable order and seller arrangements.

If a selected variant becomes unavailable, the seller should not substitute another variant without appropriate authorization or customer agreement where required.

==========

10. PRODUCT AVAILABILITY AND INVENTORY

==========

Sellers are responsible for maintaining accurate product availability information.

Inventory should be updated when products:

- Become available
- Become unavailable
- Become low in stock
- Are discontinued
- Are temporarily unavailable

A seller should not knowingly accept orders for unavailable products without appropriate disclosure and handling.

==========

11. OUT-OF-STOCK PRODUCTS

==========

If a product becomes unavailable after an order is placed, the appropriate handling may depend on:

- Order status
- Seller circumstances
- Customer preference
- Applicable cancellation policy
- Payment status
- Availability of alternatives

A seller should not substitute an unavailable product with another product without appropriate authorization where required.

==========

12. SELLER PRICING

==========

Sellers may set or provide prices for products according to the applicable marketplace arrangement.

Prices should be:

- Accurate
- Clearly associated with the correct product
- Updated when necessary
- Consistent with applicable promotional terms

Sellers should not intentionally display misleading prices.

==========

13. PRODUCT QUALITY

==========

Sellers are responsible for providing products that correspond to their listings and applicable quality requirements.

Customers should receive products that are:

- The correct product

- The correct variant

- In the condition described

- Complete where applicable

- Consistent with the listing

If a product is defective, damaged, incomplete, or materially different from its listing, the issue should be handled under the applicable return, replacement, warranty, or seller review process.

==========

14. PRODUCT AUTHENTICITY

==========

Sellers should provide authentic products where authenticity is represented or required.

Sellers must not intentionally offer:

- Counterfeit products

- Unauthorized imitations presented as genuine

- Products falsely represented as belonging to a particular brand

- Products with misleading authenticity claims

A customer who suspects that a product is counterfeit or misrepresented should report the concern for review.

==========

15. PRODUCT SAFETY

==========

Sellers are responsible for ensuring that products they offer meet applicable safety requirements.

Sellers should provide appropriate safety information where relevant.

Serious product safety concerns may result in additional review.

Examples include:

- Customer injury

- Suspected dangerous product defect

- Product recall concerns

- Missing critical safety information

- Product that appears unsafe for its intended use

==========

16. RESTRICTED PRODUCTS

==========

Certain products may be restricted or subject to additional requirements.

Sellers should not list products that are prohibited or restricted under applicable Hulu Beje policies or applicable laws and regulations.

Additional restrictions may apply to products involving:

- Safety concerns
- Regulated goods
- Hazardous materials
- Counterfeit goods
- Illegal goods
- Products requiring special authorization
- Other restricted categories

Sellers are responsible for understanding and following the applicable requirements for products they offer.

==========

17. SELLER FULFILLMENT

==========

Seller fulfillment responsibilities may include:

- Preparing the correct product
- Preparing the correct quantity
- Packaging the product appropriately
- Preparing the order within the expected timeframe
- Providing accurate shipment information where applicable
- Coordinating delivery according to the applicable arrangement

Fulfillment requirements may vary by seller and product.

==========

18. SELLER SHIPPING RESPONSIBILITIES

==========

Depending on the applicable arrangement, sellers may be responsible for preparing products for delivery and coordinating shipment.

Shipping responsibilities may include:

- Proper packaging
- Correct product identification
- Correct quantity
- Appropriate handling
- Timely preparation
- Accurate shipment information

Customers should receive clear information about applicable delivery arrangements.

==========

19. DELIVERY DELAYS CAUSED BY SELLER FULFILLMENT

==========

A seller-related delivery delay may occur when:

- The seller has not prepared the product.

- Inventory information was inaccurate.

- The seller did not dispatch the order within the expected timeframe.

- Product preparation was delayed.

- Incorrect product information affected fulfillment.

When a seller-related delay occurs, the case may require review depending on the order circumstances.

==========

20. SELLER ORDER CANCELLATION

==========

A seller may need to cancel an order in circumstances such as:

- Product unavailable
- Inventory error
- Fulfillment problem
- Product restriction
- Other circumstances permitted by the applicable arrangement

Seller cancellation should be handled according to the applicable order and cancellation policies.

Customers should receive appropriate information about cancelled orders and applicable refunds when relevant.

==========

21. CUSTOMER ORDER MODIFICATION

==========

Customers may request changes to:

- Product
- Quantity
- Variant
- Address
- Contact information

- Other order details

Whether a change is possible depends on the order's current stage and applicable seller and fulfillment arrangements.

Sellers should not make unauthorized changes to customer orders.

==========

22. SELLER RETURNS

==========

Seller products may be subject to Hulu Beje's applicable return policy, seller-specific conditions, or both.

Return eligibility may depend on:

- Product type

- Reason for return

- Product condition

- Return period

- Seller policy

- Applicable marketplace policy

- Warranty conditions

Customers should receive clear information about the applicable return process.

==========

23. SELLER REFUNDS

==========

Refunds may be required when an order is cancelled, returned, or otherwise qualifies for a refund under the applicable policy.

Refund handling may depend on:

- Payment status
- Return status
- Order status
- Seller arrangement
- Applicable refund policy
- Payment method

A seller should not promise a refund amount or timing that has not been confirmed.

==========

24. SELLER EXCHANGES AND REPLACEMENTS

==========

A seller may provide an exchange or replacement where applicable.

Examples include:

- Defective product
- Damaged product
- Wrong product
- Wrong variant
- Missing component
- Product not as described

Availability depends on:

- Product availability

- Seller policy

- Applicable return policy

- Product condition

- Order circumstances

==========

25. SELLER WARRANTY

==========

Some products may include a seller or manufacturer warranty.

Warranty terms may vary by:

- Product

- Brand

- Seller

- Manufacturer

- Product category

- Applicable warranty conditions

Customers should review the applicable warranty information associated with the product.

A warranty should not automatically be treated as the same thing as a return policy.

==========

26. RETURN VS WARRANTY

==========

A return policy and warranty may address different situations.

Return processes may cover circumstances such as:

- Wrong product
- Damaged product
- Product not as described
- Customer-eligible return reasons

Warranty processes may cover:

- Defects
- Product failures

- Specific manufacturer or seller conditions

The applicable process depends on the product and circumstances.

==========

27. CUSTOMER-SELLER COMMUNICATION

==========

Seller communication with customers should be:

- Professional

- Relevant

- Respectful

- Accurate

- Related to the order or product

Sellers should not:

- Harass customers

- Threaten customers

- Request unnecessary sensitive information

- Attempt to move customers into unsafe or unauthorized arrangements

- Misrepresent Hulu Beje policies

- Provide misleading information

==========

28. CUSTOMER PRIVACY

==========

Sellers must protect customer information received through the marketplace.

Customer information should only be used for legitimate purposes associated with:

- Order fulfillment
- Delivery
- Customer support
- Returns
- Warranty
- Other authorized business activities

Sellers should not:

- Sell customer information

- Share customer information unnecessarily

- Contact customers for unrelated purposes

- Request passwords or authentication credentials

- Request unnecessary payment information

==========

29. SENSITIVE CUSTOMER INFORMATION

==========

Sellers must never ask customers to provide:

- Passwords

- OTPs

- Authentication codes

- CVV

- Full payment card numbers

- Other confidential authentication credentials

If customer verification is required, the appropriate secure process should be followed.

==========

30. SELLER PERFORMANCE

==========

Seller performance may be affected by factors such as:

- Order fulfillment

- Product accuracy

- Product quality

- Delivery performance

- Cancellation rate

- Customer complaints

- Return activity

- Policy compliance

- Seller communication

- Product authenticity

- Other applicable business measures

Seller performance information may be reviewed when necessary to maintain marketplace quality.

==========

31. CUSTOMER REVIEWS AND RATINGS

==========

Customers may provide reviews or ratings where such features are available.

Reviews should reflect genuine customer experiences.

Sellers should not:

- Create misleading reviews
- Manipulate ratings
- Pressure customers to provide false reviews
- Threaten customers because of negative reviews
- Offer unauthorized incentives for misleading reviews

==========

32. SELLER DISPUTES

==========

Seller disputes may involve:

- Product condition
- Product authenticity
- Return eligibility
- Refund responsibility
- Delivery responsibility
- Customer claims
- Pricing
- Order cancellation
- Product description

- Warranty

- Customer communication

Disputes should be reviewed using available information and applicable policies.

A dispute should not be treated as automatically establishing responsibility for either party.

==========

33. CUSTOMER COMPLAINTS ABOUT SELLERS

==========

Customers may report sellers for:

- Wrong products

- Damaged products
- Defective products
- Counterfeit concerns
- Misleading descriptions
- Missing products
- Poor fulfillment
- Delivery problems
- Unprofessional communication
- Suspected fraud
- Unsafe products
- Policy violations

The complaint should be documented and reviewed according to the applicable process.

==========

34. FRAUDULENT SELLER ACTIVITY

==========

Potential seller fraud may include:

- Misrepresenting products
- Offering counterfeit products
- Providing false product information
- Attempting unauthorized payment collection
- Misusing customer information
- Creating deceptive listings
- Manipulating reviews
- Other suspicious conduct

Suspected fraudulent activity should be escalated for appropriate review.

==========

35. COUNTERFEIT AND INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY CONCERNS

==========

A customer or rights holder may report a product suspected of being counterfeit or improperly using protected intellectual property.

The report may include:

- Product information
- Seller information
- Order information where applicable
- Description of the concern

- Supporting information where appropriate

The report should be reviewed according to the applicable business process.

==========

36. SELLER COMMUNICATION ABUSE

==========

Seller communication should not include:

- Threats

- Harassment

- Discrimination

- Intimidation

- Insults

- Manipulation

- Unreasonable pressure

- Attempts to obtain confidential customer information

Serious communication concerns should be escalated.

==========

37. MULTI-SELLER ORDERS

==========

An order may contain products from more than one seller where the marketplace arrangement permits this.

In such cases:

- Products may have different fulfillment arrangements.

- Products may ship separately.

- Delivery times may differ.

- Return conditions may differ.

- Seller responsibilities may differ.

Customers should review the specific information associated with each product or shipment.

==========

38. SPLIT SHIPMENTS

==========

Products from different sellers or fulfillment arrangements may arrive separately.

A customer may therefore receive:

- One product before another.
- Multiple packages.
- Different tracking information.
- Different delivery dates.

A partial delivery does not automatically mean that the remaining products are missing.

The specific order information should be reviewed before determining that an item is missing.

==========

39. MISSING SELLER PRODUCT

==========

If a customer reports that a product from a seller is missing, support should determine whether:

- The product was shipped separately.
- The product has a separate delivery status.
- The product was cancelled.
- The product was not fulfilled.
- The product is actually missing.

The correct outcome depends on the specific order information.

==========

40. WRONG SELLER PRODUCT

==========

If a customer receives a product different from the one ordered, the issue may qualify for:

- Return
- Replacement
- Exchange
- Refund
- Other appropriate resolution

The applicable outcome depends on the product, order, seller arrangement, and return policy.

==========

41. DAMAGED SELLER PRODUCT

==========

If a seller's product arrives damaged, the customer should report the problem promptly.

The case may require:

- Product review
- Seller review
- Return
- Replacement
- Exchange
- Refund
- Other applicable resolution

Customers should follow the applicable return or complaint process.

==========

42. INCOMPLETE SELLER PRODUCT

==========

A product may be considered incomplete when expected components or accessories are missing.

Examples include:

- Missing accessory
- Missing required component
- Missing quantity
- Missing product item

The customer should report the issue so the product listing and order can be reviewed.

==========

43. PRODUCT NOT AS DESCRIBED

==========

If a customer believes that a product does not match its listing, the concern may include:

- Different model
- Different size
- Different color
- Different quantity
- Different specifications
- Different condition

- Missing advertised feature

- Different brand

The listing and order should be reviewed to determine the appropriate resolution.

==========

44. SELLER PROMOTIONS

==========

Sellers may participate in promotions where permitted.

Seller promotions may include:

- Product discounts

- Percentage discounts

- Fixed discounts

- Bundle offers

- Quantity promotions

- Free delivery offers

- Seller-specific coupons

- Other applicable promotions

Promotion conditions should be clearly communicated.

Customers should not be promised a seller promotion unless the applicable terms are satisfied.

==========

45. SELLER COUPONS

==========

Seller-specific coupons may have conditions such as:

- Minimum order value
- Eligible products
- Eligible categories
- Eligible customers
- Valid dates
- Usage limits
- Seller restrictions
- Other applicable conditions

Customers should follow the applicable coupon terms.

==========

46. SELLER PRICING DIFFERENCES

==========

The same or similar product may be offered by different sellers at different prices.

Price differences may result from:

- Seller pricing
- Product variant
- Product condition
- Warranty
- Delivery arrangements
- Promotion

- Other product-specific conditions

Customers should compare the complete product information rather than assuming that similar product names represent identical offers.

==========

47. SELLER PRODUCT RECOMMENDATIONS

==========

When customers compare seller products, relevant information may include:

- Price

- Product specifications

- Seller

- Availability

- Delivery conditions

- Warranty

- Return conditions

- Customer reviews where available

- Product condition

Recommendations should be based on accurate product and seller information.

==========

48. SELLER ACCOUNT PAYMENT AND PAYOUTS

==========

Seller payment and payout arrangements may depend on the applicable Hulu Beje seller agreement.

Relevant areas may include:

- Sales proceeds
- Applicable fees
- Payout timing
- Refund adjustments
- Order cancellations
- Returns
- Other applicable financial arrangements

Exact seller-specific financial terms should be obtained from the applicable seller agreement or authorized business information.

==========

49. SELLER FEES

==========

Seller fees may depend on:

- Seller agreement
- Product category
- Marketplace arrangement
- Services provided
- Applicable business terms

Exact fees should not be invented.

Sellers should refer to the applicable business agreement for their specific fee information.

==========

50. TAX AND LEGAL RESPONSIBILITIES

==========

Sellers may have tax, licensing, product, or other legal responsibilities depending on their business activities.

Specific legal or tax obligations depend on applicable laws, regulations, seller circumstances, and business arrangements.

Sellers should comply with applicable laws and regulations relevant to their activities.

==========

51. SELLER POLICY COMPLIANCE

==========

Sellers are expected to follow:

- Hulu Beje seller requirements
- Marketplace policies
- Product requirements
- Customer protection requirements
- Privacy requirements
- Applicable laws and regulations
- Applicable contractual obligations

Policy violations may result in additional review or action according to the applicable seller arrangement.

==========

52. SELLER SUSPENSION OR RESTRICTION

==========

Seller participation may be restricted or suspended when serious concerns arise.

Possible reasons may include:

- Fraud
- Counterfeit products
- Repeated misleading listings
- Serious customer complaints
- Unsafe products
- Policy violations
- Misuse of customer information
- Unauthorized activity
- Serious fulfillment problems

- Other significant concerns

The exact action depends on the circumstances and applicable seller terms.

==========

53. SELLER DISPUTE ESCALATION

==========

Seller disputes may require escalation when:

- The customer and seller provide conflicting information.

- The issue cannot be resolved through normal support.

- A refund or return decision is disputed.

- Product authenticity is questioned.

- Product safety is questioned.

- Fraud is suspected.

- Seller policy and marketplace policy appear to conflict.

- The seller disputes a business decision.

- Additional authorization is required.

Escalation means additional review and does not automatically establish responsibility or guarantee a requested outcome.

==========

54. CONFLICT BETWEEN SELLER POLICY AND HULU BEJE POLICY

==========

When seller-specific conditions differ from general Hulu Beje policies, the applicable terms for the product and order should be reviewed.

Support should not automatically assume that:

- The seller policy always overrides Hulu Beje policy.

- Hulu Beje policy always overrides seller-specific terms.

The applicable arrangement should be identified before providing a definitive answer.

==========

55. SELLER RESPONSIBILITY FOR PRODUCT INFORMATION

==========

Sellers should ensure that product information remains accurate.

When a seller discovers an error, the seller should correct the relevant listing where appropriate.

Important information includes:

- Product name
- Price
- Availability
- Variant
- Specifications
- Condition
- Included items
- Warranty
- Return information
- Seller information

==========

56. SELLER RESPONSIBILITY FOR CUSTOMER EXPECTATIONS

==========

Sellers should not create unrealistic customer expectations through:

- False delivery promises
- Misleading product descriptions
- Unsupported quality claims
- False warranty claims
- False discount claims
- Misleading availability information

Customer expectations should be based on accurate information.

==========

57. SELLER COMMUNICATION ABOUT DELIVERY

==========

Seller communication about delivery should distinguish between:

- Estimated delivery
- Expected delivery
- Confirmed delivery
- Shipped status
- Delivered status

A seller should not claim that an order was delivered unless the applicable information confirms delivery.

==========

58. SELLER COMMUNICATION ABOUT RETURNS

==========

Sellers should not misrepresent a customer's return rights.

If a customer asks whether a product can be returned, the answer should be based on:

- Applicable return policy
- Product category
- Seller conditions
- Order circumstances
- Product condition
- Applicable deadline

When uncertain, the matter should be reviewed.

==========

59. SELLER COMMUNICATION ABOUT REFUNDS

==========

Sellers should not promise a refund before the applicable refund decision has been confirmed.

Customers should receive accurate information about:

- Whether a refund applies

- Whether the refund has been approved

- Whether the refund has been initiated

- Any applicable conditions

- Expected processing information when confirmed

==========

60. SELLER PRODUCT QUALITY DISPUTES

==========

When a customer disputes product quality, relevant information may include:

- Product listing

- Product description

- Product received

- Product condition

- Customer complaint

- Seller response

- Return or warranty conditions

The dispute should be reviewed using available information.

==========

61. SELLER FRAUD AND SECURITY RESPONSIBILITIES

==========

Sellers should protect their own accounts and customer information.

Sellers should:

- Protect account credentials.

- Avoid sharing authentication information.

- Use authorized communication channels.

- Protect customer information.

- Report suspicious activity.

- Avoid requesting unnecessary sensitive customer information.

Suspected account compromise or fraudulent activity should be reported through the appropriate support process.

==========

62. CUSTOMER DATA AND SELLER ACCESS

==========

Seller access to customer information should be limited to information necessary for legitimate business purposes.

Examples may include information needed for:

- Order fulfillment
- Delivery
- Returns
- Warranty
- Customer support

Customer information should not be used for unrelated purposes without appropriate authorization.

==========

63. SELLER DATA

==========

Seller information may include:

- Seller name
- Business information
- Contact information
- Product information
- Performance information
- Transaction information
- Payment or payout information
- Customer complaints
- Policy compliance information

Seller information should be handled appropriately and should not be disclosed unnecessarily.

==========

64. SELLER ACCOUNT CHANGES

==========

Seller account information should be kept accurate.

Changes may include:

- Business information
- Contact details
- Product information
- Payment or payout information
- Delivery information

Important seller account changes may require verification or additional review.

==========

65. SELLER PRODUCT REMOVAL

==========

A product may be removed or restricted when concerns arise regarding:

- Product safety
- Authenticity
- Accuracy
- Restricted products
- Misleading information
- Policy violations
- Customer complaints

- Other applicable business requirements

The seller may be asked to provide additional information where appropriate.

==========

66. SELLER RESPONSIBILITY FOR INVENTORY ACCURACY

==========

Sellers should maintain accurate inventory information.

Repeated acceptance of orders for unavailable products may negatively affect customer experience and may result in additional seller review.

==========

67. SELLER RESPONSIBILITY FOR ORDER ACCURACY

==========

Before fulfillment, sellers should verify:

- Correct product
- Correct variant
- Correct quantity
- Correct order
- Appropriate packaging
- Applicable delivery information

This helps reduce:

- Wrong-product deliveries

- Missing items

- Incorrect quantities

- Returns

- Customer complaints

==========

68. SELLER RESPONSIBILITY FOR PACKAGING

==========

Products should be packaged appropriately for their nature and delivery requirements.

Packaging should help reduce the risk of:

- Damage

- Contamination where relevant

- Missing components

- Product exposure

- Incorrect shipment identification

Special handling requirements may apply to certain products.

==========

69. SELLER RESPONSIBILITY FOR DELIVERY INFORMATION

==========

Where applicable, sellers should provide accurate shipment information.

Customers should not be told that a product has shipped unless the applicable shipment information confirms it.

==========

70. SELLER RESPONSIBILITY FOR CUSTOMER COMPLAINTS

==========

When a customer raises a complaint about a seller product, the seller should:

- Respond appropriately.

- Provide relevant information.

- Cooperate with applicable review procedures.

- Avoid threatening or pressuring the customer.

- Follow applicable return, refund, warranty, and marketplace policies.

==========

71. SELLER RESPONSIBILITY FOR CUSTOMER SAFETY

==========

Sellers should not knowingly offer products that create unreasonable safety concerns or violate applicable requirements.

If a serious safety concern is identified, the seller should cooperate with the applicable review process.

==========

72. SELLER POLICY SCENARIOS

==========

SCENARIO 1 — WRONG PRODUCT

Customer:

"I ordered a black model but received a different model."

Handling:

Review the order, selected variant, product listing, and delivered product. If the product does not match the order, the customer may qualify for a return, replacement, exchange, refund, or other applicable resolution.

SCENARIO 2 — SELLER PRODUCT IS DAMAGED

Customer:

"The product arrived damaged."

Handling:

Document the complaint and apply the applicable return, replacement, refund, or warranty process.

SCENARIO 3 — SELLER PRODUCT IS OUT OF STOCK

Customer:

"The seller says the product is no longer available."

Handling:

Review the order status and applicable cancellation and refund process. Do not promise a specific outcome until the order is reviewed.

SCENARIO 4 — SUSPECTED COUNTERFEIT PRODUCT

Customer:

"I think this product is fake."

Handling:

Treat the concern seriously and escalate it for appropriate review. Do not independently declare the product counterfeit without appropriate verification.

SCENARIO 5 — SELLER REQUESTS CUSTOMER PASSWORD

Customer:

"The seller asked me for my account password."

Handling:

Customers should never share passwords with sellers. The incident should be reported for appropriate review.

SCENARIO 6 — SELLER DELAYED FULFILLMENT

Customer:

"My order has been confirmed but the seller has not prepared it."

Handling:

Review the order and fulfillment status. If the delay requires additional investigation, escalate the case.

SCENARIO 7 — CUSTOMER WANTS A SELLER REFUND

Customer:

"I want my money back because the product was defective."

Handling:

Review the product condition, order, return policy, and applicable warranty or seller terms before confirming the appropriate resolution.

SCENARIO 8 — SELLER DISAGREES WITH CUSTOMER COMPLAINT

Seller:

"The customer is making a false claim."

Handling:

The dispute should be reviewed using available evidence and applicable policies. Neither party should automatically be treated as correct solely because of the complaint or response.

SCENARIO 9 — MULTIPLE SELLERS IN ONE ORDER

Customer:

"One item arrived but another has not."

Handling:

Check whether the products are being fulfilled or delivered separately. A partial delivery does not automatically mean the remaining item is lost.

SCENARIO 10 — SELLER WANTS TO CONTACT CUSTOMER OUTSIDE NORMAL PURPOSE

Seller:

"I want the customer's phone number so I can market other products."

Handling:

Customer information should not be used for unrelated purposes without appropriate authorization.

==========

73. FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS — CUSTOMERS

==========

Q1. What is a seller on Hulu Beje?

A:

A seller is a business or vendor offering products through the Hulu Beje marketplace where marketplace selling is available.

Q2. Is every product sold directly by Hulu Beje?

A:

Not necessarily. Some products may be offered by individual sellers or vendors depending on the marketplace arrangement.

Q3. Are seller products covered by returns?

A:

Return eligibility depends on the product, seller arrangement, applicable return policy, and circumstances.

Q4. What if I receive the wrong product from a seller?

A:

Report the issue so the order and product can be reviewed under the applicable return or replacement process.

Q5. What if a seller sends me a damaged product?

A:

Report the damage promptly. The case can be reviewed under the applicable return, replacement, refund, or warranty process.

Q6. What if I think a seller's product is counterfeit?

A:

Report the concern for appropriate review. Do not assume the product is counterfeit solely based on suspicion.

Q7. Can sellers see my password?

A:

No. Customers should never provide their password to a seller.

Q8. Can a seller ask for my OTP?

A:

Customers should never provide OTPs or authentication codes to sellers.

Q9. Can sellers use my information for marketing?

A:

Customer information should only be used for authorized and legitimate purposes. Sellers should not misuse customer information.

Q10. Can seller products have different delivery times?

A:

Yes. Delivery conditions may vary by seller, product, location, and fulfillment arrangement.

Q11. Can different products in one order arrive separately?

A:

Yes. Products from different sellers or fulfillment arrangements may be shipped separately.

Q12. Why do two similar products have different prices?

A:

Different sellers may set different prices, and products may also differ in variant, condition, warranty, delivery, or other characteristics.

Q13. Can a seller cancel my order?

A:

An order may be cancelled in certain circumstances, such as product unavailability or fulfillment problems, subject to applicable policies.

Q14. Can I change my order after purchasing?

A:

Changes depend on the current order status and applicable seller and fulfillment conditions.

Q15. What if the seller does not respond?

A:

Contact Hulu Beje support so the matter can be reviewed and escalated when appropriate.

Q16. What if I disagree with a seller's decision?

A:

You may request additional review through the applicable support process.

Q17. Does a seller warranty replace the return policy?

A:

Not necessarily. Warranty and return policies may address different situations.

Q18. Can I review a seller?

A:

Where seller reviews or ratings are available, customers may provide feedback based on their genuine experience.

Q19. What if a seller's product description is incorrect?

A:

Report the issue so the product listing and customer order can be reviewed.

Q20. What happens if a seller violates marketplace rules?

A:

The seller may be subject to additional review or action according to the applicable seller terms and business policies.

==========

74. FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS — SELLERS

==========

Q1. What information must sellers provide?

A:

Sellers should provide accurate business, contact, product, fulfillment, and other information required by the applicable seller arrangement.

Q2. Are sellers responsible for product descriptions?

A:

Yes. Sellers should ensure that their product information is accurate and not misleading.

Q3. Are sellers responsible for inventory?

A:

Sellers should maintain accurate inventory information and avoid accepting orders for products that are unavailable.

Q4. Are sellers responsible for product quality?

A:

Sellers are responsible for providing products that match their listings and applicable quality requirements.

Q5. Can sellers sell counterfeit products?

A:

No. Sellers should not intentionally offer counterfeit or falsely represented products.

Q6. Can sellers request customer passwords?

A:

No. Sellers must not request customer passwords.

Q7. Can sellers request OTPs?

A:

No. Sellers must not request OTPs or authentication codes.

Q8. What happens when a customer complains about a seller?

A:

The complaint may be reviewed using the available information and applicable policies.

Q9. Can sellers cancel orders?

A:

Seller cancellation may be permitted in certain circumstances according to the applicable seller and order policies.

Q10. Are sellers responsible for delivery?

A:

Delivery responsibility depends on the applicable seller and fulfillment arrangement.

Q11. Are sellers responsible for returns?

A:

Return responsibility depends on the applicable product, seller arrangement, and return policy.

Q12. Can sellers create promotions?

A:

Sellers may participate in promotions where permitted and subject to applicable conditions.

Q13. Can sellers use customer information for unrelated marketing?

A:

Customer information should not be used for unrelated purposes without appropriate authorization.

Q14. Can sellers be suspended?

A:

Seller participation may be restricted or suspended when serious policy, safety, fraud, quality, or other concerns arise.

Q15. What happens when seller information conflicts with customer information?

A:

The matter should be reviewed using available information rather than automatically assuming either party is correct.

==========

75. SELLER POLICY INFORMATION RULE

==========

Specific seller information should not be invented.

This includes:

- Seller identity

- Seller pricing

- Seller inventory

- Seller fees

- Seller payout amounts

- Seller delivery arrangements

- Seller warranty

- Seller return conditions

- Seller account status

- Seller performance

- Seller-specific promotions

When specific information is not confirmed, it should be treated as requiring verification.

==========

76. CUSTOMER AND SELLER DISPUTE PRINCIPLES

==========

When a customer and seller disagree:

1. Identify the specific issue.

2. Review the relevant order.

3. Review the product information.

4. Review the applicable policy.

5. Identify what each party claims.

6. Separate confirmed facts from disputed claims.

7. Avoid automatically assigning responsibility.

8. Escalate when additional review is necessary.

9. Communicate the confirmed outcome clearly.

==========

77. FINAL SELLER POLICY PRINCIPLES

==========

Hulu Beje sellers should:

- Provide accurate product information.

- Maintain accurate inventory.

- Provide products that match their listings.

- Handle customer orders responsibly.

- Follow applicable delivery and fulfillment requirements.

- Respect customer privacy.

- Protect customer information.

- Never request passwords, OTPs, CVV, full card numbers, or authentication codes.

- Handle customer complaints professionally.

- Avoid misleading customers.

- Avoid counterfeit products.

- Follow applicable return, refund, exchange, and warranty requirements.

- Follow applicable marketplace policies.

- Follow applicable laws and regulations.

- Cooperate with appropriate reviews and investigations.

- Avoid abusive or threatening communication.

- Maintain accurate seller information.

- Report suspicious or fraudulent activity.

- Provide accurate promotion information.

- Avoid unauthorized use of customer information.

==========

78. FINAL CUSTOMER PRINCIPLES FOR SELLER PRODUCTS

==========

Customers purchasing seller products should:

- Review the product description.
- Review the seller information where available.
- Review price and applicable delivery information.
- Check product variants before ordering.
- Review applicable return and warranty information.
- Report incorrect, damaged, defective, incomplete, or suspicious products promptly.
- Report suspected counterfeit products.
- Protect account and payment information.
- Never share passwords, OTPs, CVV, full card numbers, or authentication codes.
- Contact Hulu Beje support when a seller-related issue cannot be resolved normally.

==========

79. FINAL POLICY STATEMENT

==========

The Hulu Beje marketplace may involve products offered by different sellers or vendors, and seller responsibilities may vary depending on the applicable business arrangement.

Sellers are expected to provide accurate product information, maintain appropriate inventory, fulfill orders responsibly, protect customer information, communicate professionally, and comply with applicable marketplace requirements.

Customers should receive products that correspond to the applicable product listing and order.

Seller-related complaints, disputes, product quality concerns, authenticity concerns, payment issues, delivery problems, and safety concerns should be handled according to the applicable business policies and reviewed when necessary.

Escalation does not automatically establish responsibility or guarantee a requested outcome.

Seller-specific information, product information, pricing, availability, delivery conditions, return conditions, warranty conditions, and financial terms should not be invented when they have not been confirmed.

The overall objective is to maintain a trustworthy marketplace environment in which customers and sellers understand their responsibilities and can obtain appropriate support when problems arise.